Jake Prodoehl (he/him) is an energetic leader most known for his unwavering commitment to the patients we serve and the people we work with. With the profound belief that the heart of any successful organization lies in its people, Jake has dedicated his career to fostering a workplace culture built on trust, empathy, equality, and empowerment.

Jake joined Sanofi in 2018 and has held various roles in sales and marketing in our Specialty Care GBU. He currently is on the Global Marketing Team for brain penetrant and bioactive Tolebrutinib. He also is the Global Lead of Pride+, Sanofi's LGBTQ+ Global Employee Resource Group.

Jake's journey with Pride+ is one of innovation and inspiration. In 2020, he embarked on a mission as the Founder and Lead of Pride+, creating Sanofi's first-ever pilot global employee resource group. Under his guidance, Pride+ flourished and served as a catalyst for the birth of four more global ERGs: Culture & Origins+, Ability+, Gender+, and Generations+. His leadership within Pride+ reflects the heart of Sanofi's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and belonging.

Jake graduated from Miami University with a BA in Biology, with additional accreditations in Spanish and Entrepreneurship.

Jake and his fiancé Eduardo share a puppy, Milo. Milo, their mini bernedoodle, brings boundless joy to their lives, especially during adventures at the dog park or while exploring Boston. Travel enthusiasts, Jake and Eduardo embark on yearly journeys to new countries; their latest escapade took them to Thailand and Vietnam. With a wedding on the horizon in 2024, they're planning the perfect day, complete with a puppy tuxedo for Milo!
